The content within this booklet is for informational purposes only. It is not intended to be a substitute for professional medical advice. Families are encouraged to discuss the information in this booklet with their child's doctor or other health-care providers.

Specialty Health Services

For nearly all children on the autism spectrum, evaluation by an experienced team of professionals is necessary for an accurate diagnosis and optimal treatment planning. Families are an essential partner to the team as they are the principle caregiver and the center of strength and support for the child. The link below provides access to a resource that offers guidelines for the care of children with an autism spectrum disorder: www.ohsu.edu/cdrc/medicalhome/docs/autism.pdf.

Multidisciplinary Clinics

For more information about CSHS clinics, review the following link: www.ndhealth.gov/cshs/docs/clinic-schedule.pdf.

Great Plains Interdisciplinary Autism Diagnostic Clinic (GPIC):

Children's Special Health Services (CSHS) supports autism clinics in Jamestown and Minot. The purpose of these clinics is to provide diagnostic services, including screening and follow-up services, to families of referred children. Referrals most often are made by local providers but can also be made by families. Two children are screened at each clinic in an arena-style format. In this environment, the interdisciplinary team works in one room with the family present to perform screening and provide recommendations to the family.

The sites for the autism clinics are listed below:

Jamestown	Anne Carlsen Center 701 3rd Street Northwest Jamestown, ND 58401	Minot	Minot State University Campus 500 University Avenue West Minot, ND 58707
------------------	--	--------------	--

For more information, contact Connie Irey, GPIC's Family Support Specialist at 800.233.1737 or connie.irey@minotstateu.edu.

Sanford Health's Pediatric Developmental Evaluation Clinic (Fargo):

This clinic is for any child (age 6 months and up) for whom a full developmental assessment is warranted. In the clinic, each child is evaluated fully by a speech therapist, occupational therapist, pediatrician and dietician. The families also are seen by a medical social worker and a registered nurse. Diagnosis of an autism spectrum disorder facilitates at least one follow-up visit with the child and family. These visits are intended to monitor the child's progress and ensure that appropriate services are in place for the child and family. For more information, contact Sanford Health's Coordinated Treatment Center at 800.828.2901.

Altru's Developmental Assessment Clinic (Belcourt and Fort Totten):

These clinics (sponsored by a grant through CSHS) provide annual developmental assessments for high-risk children in Belcourt and Fort Totten. A team of specialists perform comprehensive evaluations to determine the need for further services. For more information, call Tiffani Peterson at 701.780.2477.

Altru's Pediatric Developmental Clinic (Grand Forks):

This clinic serves children who are considered to be at risk for developmental issues. Located in Altru's Main Clinic, the Pediatric Developmental Clinic integrates physical and occupational therapy screenings as well as nutrition services with the child's physician appointment. Together, the team then determines if the child has a need for additional services. For more information, call Tiffani Peterson at 701.780.2477 or Altru Pediatrics at 701.780.6110.

GPAST

Great Plains Autism Spectrum Disorders Treatment Program (GPAST):

GPAST provides training, research and diagnostics to North Dakota children and youth suspected of having or diagnosed with autism spectrum disorders. GPAST services currently are being provided through community-based screening and diagnostic clinics, as well as a variety of research studies. GPAST supports infrastructure development and technology innovations for service delivery to rural families of children with autism in North Dakota. For more information, visit www.ndcpd.org/autism or call 800.233.1737.

Anne Carlsen Center (ACC) offers a rich tradition of empowering individuals with disabilities and their families. Their experienced staff provides compassion, training, services and supports in homes and communities across North Dakota. On the Jamestown campus, they meet the educational, residential and therapeutic needs of children and young adults with autism, behavior disorders, medical fragility and other developmental disabilities. They also provide services in the home through customized supports for individuals from birth to age 21. In addition, through their community-based services (i.e. in-home supports and community day supports), Anne Carlsen accommodates individuals of all ages, including adults.

Autism Waiver will give families access to an evaluation team that can validate their child's diagnosis and serve as a resource for the family's local service providers. Qualifying families will also receive training, help coordinating services, and access to in-home support staff to help provide structured activities focusing on communication, behavior, and other individual needs. The waiver will also provide financial help with the cost of equipment, supplies, and environmental modifications. To apply, contact the Developmental Disabilities Unit at one of the eight Regional Human Service Centers. www.nd.gov/dhs/locations/regionalhsc

Birth to Three Early Intervention is a support and service program designed to help families with children, from birth to age 3, with disabilities and/or developmental delays. The goal of this program is to improve a child's development and to increase involvement in family and community life. By partnering with families, ND Early Intervention provides them with the tools and support they need to help their child be successful. Qualifying families have access to a wide array of professionals, including case management and an experienced parent specialist. Anyone, including family members, can refer a child for a free developmental evaluation, with eligibility based on the following criteria:

- Displays a 50 percent delay in any area of development (cognition, communication, motor, self-help, or social emotional skills).
- Displays a 25 percent delay or more in any two areas of development.
- Has a diagnosis or disability that impairs typical development.
- Has a significant health condition that puts them at high risk for developmental delays.
- Has vision or hearing loss.

ND Early Intervention also includes a screening program called Right Track. This program offers free developmental screenings and parent information. To make a referral or to learn more, call 800.755.8529.

Resources for Treatments for Autism Spectrum Disorders

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) divides ASD treatments into four categories: behavior and communication approaches, dietary approaches, medication, and complementary and alternative medicine. Because potential autism treatments are evolving continuously, an “other” category also may be considered.

The National Institute of Mental Health and the Autism Society of America suggest a list of questions parents can ask when planning treatments for their child:

Financial Help

Bridge to Benefits is a multi-state project sponsored by the Children’s Defense Fund – Midwest Region focused on improving the well-being of families and individuals by linking them to public work support programs and tax credits.

nd.bridgetobenefits.org

Caring for Children provides free health and dental coverage to children of low-income working parents. Children are eligible if they are North Dakota residents, birth through age 18, and are not covered by other health insurance or not eligible for Medicaid or Healthy Steps. Parents must meet income requirements. For more information or to apply, call 701.277.2227 or toll-free at 800.342.4718.

www.ndcaring.org

Children’s Special Health Services (CSHS)

Diagnostic Services – CSHS pays for health-care visits and tests needed to diagnose many chronic health conditions seen in children. To qualify, children must be suspected of having a CSHS-eligible condition. There is no financial eligibility requirement for diagnostic services; however, insurance or other sources of health-care coverage are used when available. Health-care visits must be made with a specialist who is approved to provide services through CSHS.

Treatment Services – In North Dakota, several programs are available that provide health care coverage for children. CSHS is a program specifically for children with special health-care needs. CSHS pays for specialty care that is needed to treat a CSHS-eligible condition. To qualify, families must meet income eligibility guidelines currently set at 185 percent of the federal poverty level. Families with incomes higher than 185 percent still may be eligible with a cost share. Insurance or other sources of health-care coverage are used when available. Health-care visits must be made with a specialist who is approved to provide services through CSHS.

Families apply for CSHS diagnostic and treatment services at their local county social service office. In order to ensure coverage, contact CSHS toll free at 800.755.2714, as provider restrictions and time limits may affect the eligibility start date.

www.ndhealth.gov/cshs/docs/cshs-diagnostic-and-treatment-services-fact-sheet.pdf

Comprehensive Health Association of North Dakota (CHAND) provides comprehensive health insurance to residents of the state who are denied health insurance or are considered high risk. Individuals must be a resident of North Dakota continuously for at least six months and have written evidence from at least one insurance carrier that within the last six months they have been denied health-care coverage or offered coverage which substantially restricts benefits for specific conditions. For more information, call 800.737.0016.

Education

Head Start

Head Start and Early Head Start are comprehensive child development programs. Regular Head Start programs are for children ages 3 and 4. Some communities offer a program specifically for families with children younger than 3 and pregnant women. A variety of services are provided through Head Start programs, including health, education, parent involvement, family literacy, social services and services for children with disabilities. Call the Head Start State Collaboration office at 800.245.3736 or your local Head Start program.

www.nd.gov/dhs/services/childfamily/headstart

School Nursing

The purpose of school nursing is to support the educational process by contributing positively and significantly to the health, health attitudes and health behaviors of today's children, and consequently, tomorrow's adults. Contact the Department of Health at 701.328.2493 or your local school nurse.

www.ndhealth.gov/school-nursing

Special Education

It is important to locate and identify children who are in need of special services as early as possible. Screening and assessment opportunities offered at school help identify possible areas of difficulty that could interfere with a child's learning or academic performance. Some children with disabilities may require special education services to address their unique educational needs. Contact the Department of Public Instruction at 701.328.2260 or your local special education unit.

From the National Institute of Health (within the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services), the National Center for Complementary and Alternative Medicine defines CAM as “a group of diverse medical and health care systems, practices, and products that are not generally considered to be part of conventional medicine. While scientific evidence exists regarding some CAM therapies, for most there are key questions that are yet to be answered through well-designed scientific studies — questions such as whether these therapies are safe and whether they work for the purposes for which they are used.” (This list is for informational purposes only. As one can see, there are a number of behavioral and educational interventions currently available for individuals with ASD. Not every treatment may be appropriate for every child. One way to determine if a particular treatment may be effective is to evaluate the research. The National Standards Report from the National Autism Center (NAC) utilizes a Strength of Evidence classification system to demonstrate the NAC’s confidence about the efficacy of a specific intervention. Ratings reflect the quality, quantity and consistency of the research findings. The 2009 National Standards Report can be found online at: www.nationalautismcenter.org/pdf/NAC%20Standards%20Report.pdf

The Autism Awareness Ribbon:

The puzzle pattern of this ribbon reflects the mystery and complexity of autism.

The different colors and shapes represent the diversity of those living with this disorder.

The brightness of the ribbon signals hope - hope through research and increasing awareness in people like you.

Family Support Services

Care Coordination for Children with Special Health-Care Needs meets the complex health needs of children and their families often requires special assistance in the form of care coordination. The Care Coordination Program through Children’s Special Health Services (CSHS) helps eligible families access services and resources in their community and, when needed, across multiple service delivery settings. Pediatricians and Family Doctors Lists of primary care doctors who practice in North Dakota are available upon request. All children benefit from a medical home. A medical home is not a building, but rather an approach to providing comprehensive medical care. In a medical home, a physician or other medical provider works in partnership with the family/patient to assure that the medical and non-medical needs of the child/youth are met. Through this partnership, the medical provider can help the family/patient access and coordinate specialty care, educational services, out-of-home care, family support, and other public and private community services that are important to the overall health of the child and family.

Public Health

Local public health units provide a variety of services such as immunizations, home visits, high-risk infant follow-up, general child health services, community wellness programs, and school health screenings.
